

Argyle Bluegrass Festival Information July 1, 2009

It is with great disappointment that the Argyle Bluegrass Festival organizing committee announces the cancellation of the March 2010 festival.

Since the festival's inception, the campus of Cross Timbers Community Church in Argyle, Texas, has been home to our event. The growth of both the church and festival has increased the potential for conflicting space and programming needs during the festival weekend. Unfortunately, Cross Timbers is unable to commit their venue to us at this time, making timely booking decisions impossible for an appropriate 2010 talent line-up.

The level of talent that the Argyle Bluegrass Festival presents each year requires booking our artists months, sometimes years, in advance. In addition to our award-winning talent, the festival hosts an annual Arts & Crafts fair, conducts workshop classes, provides jamming space and a food pavilion. Finding an alternate Argyle-area venue that can accommodate all that we offer our guests has proven to be an insurmountable challenge.

We appreciate the ongoing support of our sponsors, guests and volunteers. We welcome your comments and suggestions as we consider the future of our festival.
